Find balance between study, service to grow at SJC

by SISTER LINDA KORS, C.S.C.

Director of Campus Ministry

■ Welcome to the Challenge of living out our theme for this year! I'm sure each one of you as first

'94-'95 Academic Theme

*There is a time to be born,
a time
to grow, to build,
to serve*

year students are very much aware of the idea of the newness of this time of year for you.

"To be born" may be a little philosophical, yet as you begin your time at Saint Joseph's College, you can easily identify with the feeling of being born, especially when you contemplate the unknowns and uncertainties surrounding your academic journey. Don't be overwhelmed by the process. The excitement is around you in all who begin this year with you. There are so many opportunities for growth and development. You must take the next step in accepting that challenge.

You might have the specific gift that we need around here. Don't think you are too young or that your idea may not be accepted. Share the uniqueness of you. That sharing will help in the building of the Saint Joseph's College community. In building at that level we all learn what it means to build at a much broader level of the universe.

There are many ways that you can become involved on campus. Take time during these years to volunteer. There are so many different ways to serve and this is the prime time for that.

You know best what you like to do. Ask any one of us at the College to help direct you in a way you can use and develop your skills and gifts. Finding a balance between study and service will help you develop into the best professional person in the end. The job market is looking for people that have broad experience. You will be the better in the end. I know that the Student Volunteer Corps is in need of your few moments each week.

So, I welcome you again. It is good that you are joining our community at Saint Joseph's College.

PRESIDENTIAL WELCOME

Discover your place in our community

by DR. ALBERT SHANNON, PH.D.

President of Saint Joseph's College

■ You have recently made a decision that has changed forever the rest of your life - we are all here to let you know that you have made the right decision!!

Your decision to attend Saint Joseph's College displays a commitment on your part to grow; we intend to assist you academically, spiritually, and morally with that development. You will find that SJC is a student-centered community; everyone's job is focused on providing learning opportunities for you — please take advantage of each one.

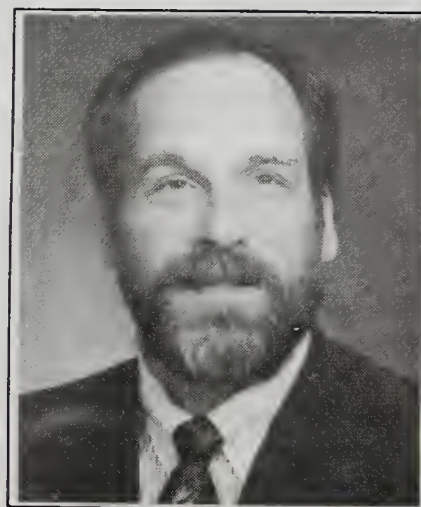

You will find a new spirit on the SJC campus this Fall — we challenge you to take part in our "spirit of giving and serving." In addition to asking what can SJC do for you — we will, in turn, ask WHAT CAN YOU DO FOR SJC? We will ask you to give of your time and resources to make peoples' lives better, to make the campus a better place, and to make our community a tighter family of learners. Our campus is here to create young men and women who feel that they owe something to the world; we want you to get an education so that you can serve yourself, your family, your community, and your God.

I will challenge you throughout the year by asking — what have you done for St. Joe's lately? Have you begun to leave your mark on our community? What have you given back? How can you help us? Have you offered us all of your skills and talents? I look forward to all of our conversations.

I will look to you to give me ideas ... I will look to you to energize me with your participation and campus pride. My wife, MJ, and I will continue to turn up in many stopping points on your journey through SJC. I look forward to seeing you in your classes, in your residence halls, on your venues of competition, in the cafe ... in all parts of your lives. You will soon find out why every day is a great day to be a Puma!!!

SUCCESS AND SURVIVAL SKILLS

words of advice for first year students

by DR. BERNARD S. PARKER
Vice President for Academic Affairs

■ Welcome to Saint Joseph's College!

I hope the coming weeks and months are a positive and exciting experience for each of you. I'm sure that many of you have questions — and perhaps some doubts or apprehensions — about beginning college. That's natural, and certainly normal.

Our freshman advising staff has one main goal: During orientation and throughout the first semester (a period we refer to as extended orientation) we want to help you deal with your concerns and make a successful transition to college life.

During orientation and the freshman seminar you'll meet several key people who will help you adjust to Saint Joseph's. These include your orientation group leader, your freshman seminar student leaders, and your faculty advisor. These staff members have been trained to assist you. They're friendly and approachable, so feel free to call upon them.

Your group leader will try to make you feel at home during orientation. Your advisor will also accompany you to the many scheduled events during orientation. To give you a chance to start making new friends, you'll generally be grouped with other new students from your dorm floor. If you're a new commuting student, we'll try to give you a chance to meet some of the other new commuters (maybe you can even coordinate transportation plans!), plus we'll get you involved in activities with the resident students.

Your freshman seminar leader will work with you throughout the first semester in a one-credit course that all freshmen take.

You'll meet with your freshman seminar group on Thursday and Sunday during orientation and once a week thereafter.

This team will help you plan your freshman year and will work with you to develop what I call "college survival and success skills." One of the most important things you and your advisor will do during the first days of orientation is plan your first semester academic schedule. Please don't worry if your freshman advisor is not from the academic area you're thinking about as a possible major or concentration. We planned it that way to lessen the pressures on you.

Your advisor will help you explore all your academic options and interests. If during your freshman year you develop new interests or you change your mind about your intended course of study, your advisor can assist you in sorting things out. Advisors have been trained to help you in planning your first year program, no matter what your academic interests or intended major may be.

Many of you may be wondering what you'll study at Saint Joseph's College, what your major will be, what courses you should take. My main message to you is: RELAX.

If you're unsure about a major, there's plenty of time to decide on one. If you've decided already, that's fine too.

Remember, there's no problem with changing your mind later. Three are only a few courses of study at SJC (your advisor can tell you about them) in which you have to get started right away as a first semester freshman in order to complete all the graduation requirements in four years. During the coming year, your advisor will help you make an informed decision about a major so that by the middle of the second semester you can be transferred to a new advisor within your intended area of specialization.

For now, my advice to you is to use your freshman year to explore your interests as fully as possible. Broaden your horizons. Remember, there are many courses of study and extra-curricular activities here at Saint Joseph's College that probably didn't exist in your high school. The coming two semesters can become an exciting period of self-discovery.

I hope over the course of the semester you will come to regard both your advisor and the student leaders as valuable resource persons. None of these people can answer all your questions or solve all your problems. However, I can promise you that they'll know who to put you in touch with should you require assistance that they can not provide personally.

Beyond the freshman seminar, one thing all of you will have in common is Saint Joseph's Core program. In many ways, Core is the cornerstone of a Saint Joseph's College education. What Core provides is an integrated general education. It spans all four years of college and has the goal of bringing a broad range of subjects together into a meaningful whole. Our graduates often tell us Core was the most important part of their education.

Core will develop your ability to communicate effectively and your capacity to think clearly.

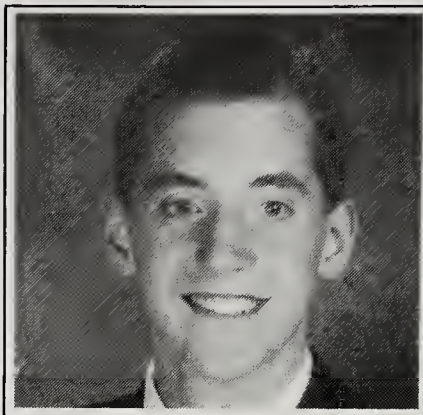

These skills matter in every area of endeavor. That's why during the freshman year Core program we will be working very intensively with you in developing your listening, speaking, writing, and thinking skills. I can assure you that your hard work in these areas will bear many dividends.

Remember, no question is silly if you need the answer and don't have it. There are a lot of people here to answer your questions, including me.

I wish you all a satisfying and rewarding year.

"My main message to you is: RELAX."

"We want to help you deal with your concerns."

FRESHMAN LEADERS

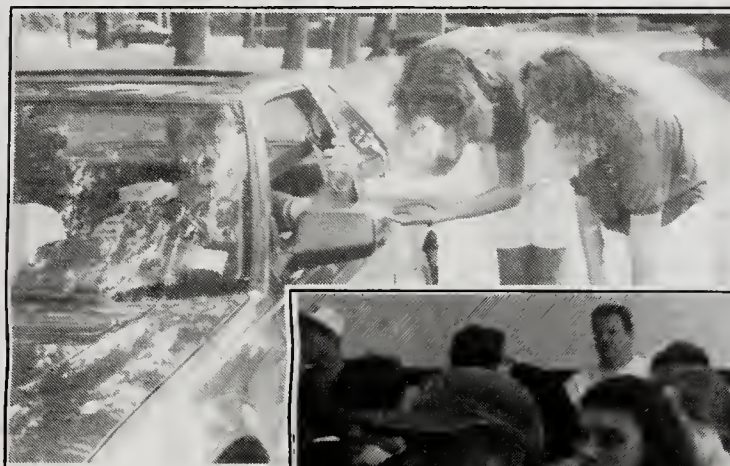

"We are here for you."

■ The Freshman Leaders are interviewed in the spring and selected on the basis of their academic achievement, acquaintances with college services, leadership ability, and willingness to work with new students to acquaint them with college resources.

The Freshmen Leader serves as a role model as he/she helps to ease the student into the academic and social atmosphere at SJC.

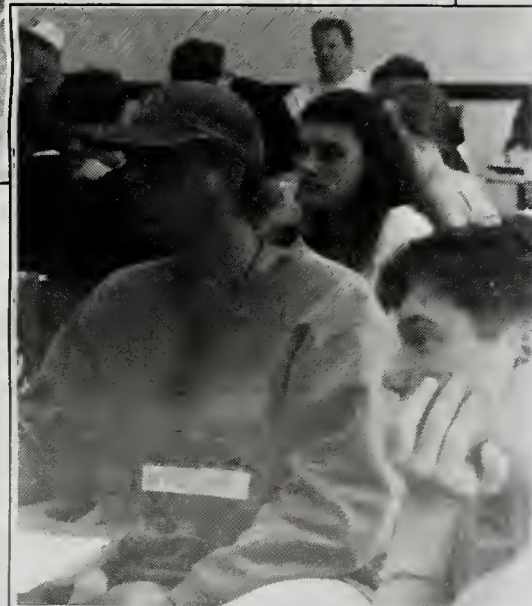

The Freshmen Leader will escort the freshmen on his/her floor to all the events during the Orientation Program and is totally available as a resource.

In addition, throughout the year, the Freshman Leader, along with the Freshman Academic Advisor, will team-teach the newly designed Freshman Seminar, worth one credit hour. This class meets weekly to focus on transition into college.

STUDENT UNION BOARD: Bringing entertainment to Saint Joe's campus

by GWENDOLYN JOHNSON

Student Union Board Director

■ WELCOME PUMA CLASS
OF '98!

Saint Joseph's College Student Union Board would like to welcome you to another year of activity! We hope your years here will be memorable and that SUB events will be among your highlights!

As a group of elected student leaders our organization provides entertainment for students on campus. Our activities range from dances and comedians to fine arts entertainment, films, trips, and much more.

Our Board consists of myself as your President, Co-Director Holly Canalia, Secretary Jason Hunter, Treasurer Cindy Rinki, and Chairmen Tracy Sines, Lisa Curley, Rob Musgraves, Andrea Bernardon, and Donna Czachura. These people put a lot of time into bringing activities to SJC.

Some events that take place every year include Little 500, Big and Little Sibs Weekend, "I Hate Winter" Weekend, Lip Sync Contest, and Rec Fest. This year we are also having a coffeehouse band call the Nudes, Dan Horn (an, outrageous ventriloquist), movies, various novelty packs such as Human Bowling and the Orbitron, comedians Cindy Eaton and Vic Henley, the music of Rick Kelley and much more. All of these events are coordinated strictly by student volunteers.

By coming to Activities Call-Out on Wednesday, August 31st, you too can join our efforts. Committee members are always welcome and needed. Membership is a privilege ... and doesn't look bad on a resume either! We always have a lot of fun and the end results are worth the effort.

Elections for Board positions are in December and anyone who has worked with SUB before can run. Just find your niche with us and join the fun! I look forward to meeting you, and once again, welcome to Pumaville!

'May I add to your list of challenges?'

by BRETT BYERS

Student Association President

■ Dear New Pumas, The reality of being a new student at a college or university can be very scary. Any new environment requires adaptive measures; making new friends and learning different ways to go about your everyday activities. When times are tough a week can seem to drag on forever; however, trust me — it will all be over before you know it! In looking back, I distinctly remember the first day I arrived at Saint Joseph's College in my freshman year. The combination of fear and excitement was tremendous — and, ironically, now in my Senior year I face the same tremendous fear and excitement of leaving SJC.

The amount of knowledge you will retain is immeasurable. Your selection of Saint Joseph's College was a very important, wise investment and I am confident you will not be disappointed. Over the course of the years to come, you will face many challenges. May I add one challenge to this list, possibly the most important of all — get involved. Get involved in a sport, an academic or extracurricular club, student government, or our outstanding Student Volunteer Corps.

One of many distinctive and exceptional characteristics of Saint Joseph's College is the size. With an ideal population of approximately 1,000 students, it is possible to get to know almost everyone. Your teachers will become friends, your friends will be teachers, and you will teach us as much as we teach you.

In conclusion, to the newest Pumas — learn as much as you can, but make sure you have as much fun as possible doing it!

Leadership opportunities

Are you interested in a leadership position where you help your class plan activities and get together as a class more often than just Core lectures? This is the perfect spot for you. Elections will be held Tuesday, Sept. 13, and your campaign could help your college career. A time commitment and a desire to work hard are all that's necessary to be a great class officer. Petitions will be available at the Activities Call-Out at the Student Association table on Wednesday, Aug. 31. After that, they'll be available in the Student Affairs Office (first floor Halleck). They must be turned back into the Student Affairs Office by Noon on Wednesday, Sept. 7.

If you have any questions about the duties, responsibilities or campaign process for becoming a class officer, please contact Brett Byers, Student Association President at ext. 5100, or any other SA member.

CAREER PLANNING & PLACEMENT

It's not just for Seniors anymore!

by CHRIS KEITH

Director of Career Planning & Placement

Some of you may have the idea that Career Planning and Placement is the place Seniors go when they want to get a job. Well, helping Seniors learn how to conduct a successful job search is one aspect of what the Career Planning and Placement Office does. But Career Development is something that requires more than a quick visit before graduation in order to set up a credential file. Career Development is something which starts during your freshman year, and should continue on throughout your working life.

Many of you who are freshmen are probably thinking "Why do I have to worry about Career Development? I'm not going to graduate for another four years." However, Career Development is something which should start as soon as possible, in order to make finding that first professional position less complicated. As a freshman, you can start to assess your interests and skills, and identify potential careers which might take full advantage of those interests and skills. You can also start to get involved in activities which will help you learn about yourself and give you leadership opportunities. In your sophomore and junior years, you might be able to find work experiences which will enhance and develop your skills, and give you the experience that future employers will want. Then, by the time you are a senior and ready to begin working on your resume, cover letter, and interviewing skills, you will have a clear focus on what you want to do, and what you have to offer in the world of work.

KEITH

Registration and information bulletins are available in the Career Planning and Placement Office. Registrations are usually due at least a month before testing.

Opportunities for Career Development exist for ALL students at Saint Joseph's College, whether you need individual career counseling, a workshop on job search skills, or resource materials; just stop by the Career Planning and Placement Office on the 3rd floor of Halleck Center, or call Christine Keith at ext. 6355.

COUNSELING SERVICES

Jennings, Cramer team can assist you in making the grades

by DIANE JENNINGS

Director of Counseling Services

Counseling Services makes available to students free support services, i.e., study skills, tutoring, reading improvement, personal counseling, tests, inventories. Within this framework, students have an opportunity to improve their academic and social work. Counseling Services plans the Orientation program. Students on academic probation or with special needs can find resources in Counseling Services.

Diane Jennings, Director of Counseling Services, was awarded the Counselor of the Year Award in 1990 from the National Association of Developmental Education. She also received the Outstanding

JENNINGS

Advisor Award from the scholastic honorary society, Alpha Lambda Delta. Diane has been in the counseling area of SJC for 15 years. She and her husband, Bill, have been at the College for 26 years. They are the parents of nine children three of whom are presently in college and two in graduate school.

Joan Cramer, Counseling Services secretary, serves as an assistant in all aspects of the services offered to students. She is the friendly contact in the Counseling Services Office who will see that all questions are answered and will direct you to the appropriate resources.

CAMPUS MINISTRY

Campus Ministry at Saint Joseph's College is here for you regardless of church affiliation or faith preference. The Campus Ministry Team is here for everyone on campus - as we all try to belong to a community concerned for the common good.

The freedom often associated with college life may offer you occasions to check out your personal commitment to practice what you believe. We hope you will grow in your spiritual life during your years of higher education. These are exciting years filled with many opportunities to offer you "gifts" to others as a sign of your Christian commitment.

We hope you'll make this a year to grow and build.

Award winner advises: take advantage of what SJC has to offer

by STEVE MYSZAK, '94

"Saint Joseph the Educator Award" Recipient '94

■ Greetings to my fellow Puma's! I congratulate you on an excellent choice of a college. Saint Joseph's College is much more than an institution of higher education; it's an experience! As you tackle your years at St. Joe's you'll discover your own meaning of what this "experience" means to you. You might be asking, "What does this guy mean?" I'll try to explain myself as thoroughly as possible.

As you have probably noticed, St. Joe's has a smaller campus than other colleges. To some of you this is a new experience, to others it may not be. However, do not let St. Joe's size fool you; it has much to offer each one of you. I've just pointed out one difference that you will find (the size of the campus and how it relates to your life). You will find a thousand more differences and similarities on through your own experiences. Keep an open mind to these differences and similarities and they can help you gain a valuable insight.

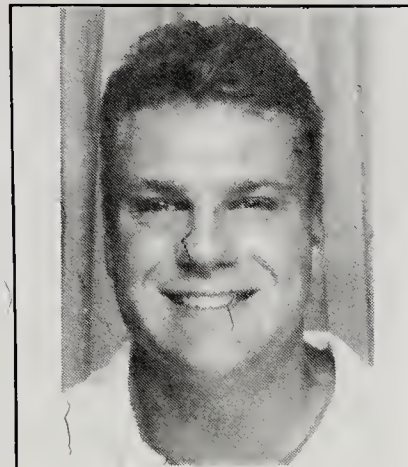

Now that you know the "secret" of getting along with others, you might be wondering how to meet these people. St. Joe's, as you will discover, has many clubs and activities. These include physical activities (such as intramural sports) to activities for spiritual growth in Campus Ministry. St. Joe's also offers a club for just about every major. These clubs are a great way to meet people in your field who are members of your class and other classes. To get involved in these clubs all you have to do is ask! Ask one of your professors, or an upper-classman. Remember, "the only dumb question is the one not asked!"

The more involved you are, the more people you'll meet and the more interesting time you'll have. Now that you know one sure way of making friends quickly and easily, you'll soon have to learn how to balance your time. I hate to say it, but there is no easy answer to this one! I'll leave it up to you to solve, along with a thousand more "mild disasters" that are waiting for you. The important thing to remember is that you are not alone in your discoveries. There have been thousands of students who have graduated and encountered similar situations that you are all about to embark on.

The one thing I wish for all of you is that you remain true to who you are, to what you want, and to go for it! Remember, just as you learn from others, they in turn learn from you!

MYSZAK

RESIDENT ASSISTANTS

More than just disciplinarians

FROM THE OFFICE OF Campus Life

■ Your resident assistants are ready to help you, and in more ways than you think. RAs are not just the persons on the floors who are in charge, and they do not act just like disciplinarians. Instead, RAs can become your best friends, and can help make your years at Saint Joe's that much more fun and rewarding.

It is true that your RAs are the FIRST SOURCE for a number of your problems in the residence halls. Having difficulty getting along with you roommate? Need to figure out how to get a personal phone installed in your room? Having troubles with you cable TV reception? These are very simple questions that your RAs can help answer and get you on your way to a great school year!

Don't be afraid to ask your RAs for help. Not only do they serve as great resource persons, but they also are great peer counselors who can help you when you're having a down day. Your RAs do care about your well-being, and want to see you succeed at SJC.

Resident assistants also help out more than just your floor. Each year, RAs are required to complete a project that helps make this school even greater. Some projects are simply fun and thrilling, while others are educational and refreshing. They've sponsored Canoe Races and Winter Olympics. Healthier People Seminars and Date Rape Forums. It's their responsibility to help you get to love Saint Joe even more!!

President of Alumni Association: SJC is a very special place

by RICHARD T. VALLIN, '59
President of Alumni Association

■ On behalf of the 10,000 plus members of the Saint Joseph's College Alumni Association, I wish to welcome you to one of the finest higher education institutions in the country.

To most alumni, St. Joe's is a very special place. Some of the friendships you'll develop in the next few months will become lifelong. The small class size, coupled with the individual concern by the faculty and staff, and the information that you will glean will most assuredly enhance your ability to succeed. Likewise, the moral principles that will be re-emphasized at St. Joe's will provide you with a well-rounded base that will assist you throughout your life.

As a young lad in the Class of '59, little did I realize when I started how much St. Joe's would lay the groundwork for my future. Because of the concern of some of the priests and professors, and the education I received, I have been able to fulfill many a dream.

Equally important to me and my family was the fact that I was able to watch the results of a St. Joe education in my two daughters, Anne, Class of 1985, and Meri, Class of 1991. Hopefully the same will be true of my grandsons.

I guess I can't really totally express the warm feeling I have about Saint Joseph's College and being a Puma. Hopefully over the next few years you'll feel that same warm and fuzzy feeling about SJC.

During your stay at St. Joe's you'll probably have little opportunity to cross paths with alumni, but when you do, ask them their feelings about St. Joe's. At Homecoming and Little 500, take the time to assist the Alumni Board in their efforts to draw alumni of all ages back to St. Joe's. From my personal experience, I found working with students at Homecoming to be most rewarding and interesting. In your discussion with alumni you'll find that we all share much common ground.

In conclusion, I welcome you to Saint Joseph's College and wish you well in your educational endeavors. If you at any time have either questions about our work, or suggestions for us, please feel free to contact Brett Byers, President of the Student Association, or Heather Rhoades, President of the Senior Class. These students are full voting members of our Board and represent your interests. I look forward to seeing you on campus.

CO-VALEDICTORIAN: 'Are you ready for this?'

by VALERIE TOWNSENDSCHRINER '94
1994 Co-Valedictorian

I hope you are up for a challenge, because whether or not you realized it, you accepted a tremendous one the moment you set foot on the St. Joe campus. First, the bad part, College is tough. School work during your freshman year is not necessarily difficult, or harder than the work you did in high school ... it is just extremely time consuming. College life is full of endless core reading lists, multiple page research papers, lectures, and lengthy homework assignments. It is normal to think you will never get caught up because it is rare for even the best student to ever accomplish such a feat. And you probably think living at home with your parents was getting to be pretty awful. After a semester of being away from home, you will come to realize and appreciate the things your parents did for you (you're thinking, "Yeah, right!").

So now, the good stuff. College life is great! No parents (or their endless house rules), independence, responsibility, freedom, new friends, great activities, good times (there really IS more than corn in Indiana), and the chance to learn a lot about yourself you probably never knew.

And finally the best part ... you could not have chosen a better school to attend than Saint Joseph's College. Remember all of the bad things I listed in the first paragraph? The teachers, faculty, and staff make up for the bad (and no ... I am not sucking up, no need, I graduated!). I do not know of any other college where the faculty and staff know students by their name, respect each other, and make themselves available to the students at any time. Whenever you do not understand class material, get behind, need guidance or advice, or simply need a home cooked meal away from the cafe ... your professor is sure to provide it. The resources provided by the faculty, staff, and administration of the College is its number one asset. Do not be afraid to use it! The biggest mistake you could make would be not utilizing your professor to their fullest extent. You will quickly come to realize how much of an advantage you have at a small college, in small classrooms, with an excellent faculty, staff, and administration.

Well, enough of my speech ... you have probably already heard it all (or will within the next few days); make a budget and stick to it, manage your time wisely, do not procrastinate — or put off till tomorrow what you SHOULD do today — and most importantly, set yourself some personal goals. All I can say is that all of it is good advice.

Have fun and good luck!

Alpha Lambda Delta 1993 Inductions

Alpha Lambda Delta is a national society which honors high scholastic achievement during the first year in college.

Membership in Alpha Lambda Delta is awarded to the students who earned a 3.5 grade point average at the completion of their freshman year at Saint Joseph's College.

Purpose of the organization is to encourage superior scholastic achievement among students and to promote a continual high standard of living.
